"From the backstretches of the racetrack to the Jamaican beaches, a persuasive and memorable journey..."

- Muriel Lennox, author of Northern Dancer

Jeanie and Frank have fallen into the overly-comfortable routine of a steady marriage, both involved in demanding careers with three young children at home who are clamouring for their share of their parents' time.

Just as Jeanie decides to retire from her job as a horse trainer, deferring to her husband's movie industry career, one of the principals of the race track where she works is murdered and she is thrown back into the maelstrom of racetrack politics and the care of the valuable horses.

Frank's seeming indifference to this emotional time and the pressures of her life puts their marriage into further jeopardy. When the entire family heads to Jamaica for a well-earned vacation, Frank's increasing absences lead Jeanie to question the very foundations of their relationship.

Struggling with these family problems, Jeanie also must handle the unusual bequest of the murdered racetrack owners' will. This involves Jeanie taking on ownership of the racetrack. All of this puts Jeanie in a situation where she must make the biggest decision of her life, bringing the novel to an exciting climax where Jeanie has the most to lose.

Frayne's premiere novel has all of the ingredients of the perfect plot: friendship, romance, mystery, intrigue, and conflict.
